Liz Smith New York Daily News

Liz Smith • Daily News 12/9/77

AS I WAS SAYING — the newly released FBI documents on the JFK assassination will be providing fodder for weeks to come. But many now agree that the theory resembles the one posited in the new Agel-Boe novel, "22 Fires," which this space wrote about first. (To wit — that the fictionalized President was accidentally killed because the assassin was actually aiming at the First Lady.) Now Dr. John Lattimer of Columbia writing in the "Journal of the AMA" seems to substantiate this theory. He states that after more than 100 tests of Oswald's rifle, it always hit a misaligned target to the left.

Also in the Warren Commission reports now surfacing is evidence that the

Sid Caesar: gig for the grapes

FBI was never able to find one person who reliably reported that Oswald had ever even test-fired that particular gun.